Sistema italiano de armazenamento de energia por bateria de 200 MW + 100 MW BESS

Esse investimento estratégico, que apresenta uma capacidade substancial de 200 MW de energia combinada com 100 MWh de armazenamento de energia, representa um grande avanço na criação de uma rede elétrica italiana mais flexível, confiável e sustentável.

Estrategicamente localizada na Calábria, uma região com alto potencial de geração de energia renovável, essa instalação BESS foi projetada para ser uma peça fundamental da infraestrutura nacional de energia. Ao armazenar o excesso de energia gerada por fontes intermitentes, como a solar e a eólica, o sistema aumentará a estabilidade da rede, gerenciará os períodos de pico de demanda e permitirá uma maior integração da energia limpa à rede.
